Applications for financial aid are separate from, and have NO bearing on your admissions application to the Graduate School of Architecture & Urban Design.

Funding for Scholarships is limited. Priority for scholarships will be given to applications received on or before February 15.

Sam Fox School of Design and Visual Arts
Washington University in St. Louis

Awards for International Students in the Graduate School of Architecture consist of Tuition Remission scholarships. For the 2013-2014 Academic Year, the average Tuition Remission scholarship is approximately $21,480 and ranges between $10,000 and $31,000. As an International Student, you will be required to show financial proof of your ability to cover the additional expenses (tuition and living expenses) not covered by the Tuition Remission Scholarship in order to be eligible for the Student Visa.

Graduate students are eligible for teaching assistantships, but these assistantships are not guaranteed. Students apply for assistantships after they have arrived on campus. Typically, assistants are drawn from those graduate students who have been in the School for at least one semester and have done well academically. Assistantships are considered part-time work (5-15 hours per week) and students are paid an hourly wage. Assistantships do not cover any tuition or school costs or come with any additional scholarship or awards. Generally, students with assistantships earn about $1,000-$2,000 per semester.
